Cities in, villages out

Comparing cities with villages in the northern hemisphere is a different ball-game from the exercise in the southern hemisphere. So also, the relative profiles of the two regions in any country of the West present a strikingly diverse scenario from those of the East. In this context, comparing cities of India, numerically on the cusp of about 9,000, with its villages, with an oft-publicised number of nearly six lakhs, can prove to be a highly fascinating exercise. However, the yawning differences between these two distinctly different socio-geographical areas of the country are tending to narrow. First of all, the 60:40 ratio of their populations is fast changing to 50:50 and, in foreseeable future, the ratio may even get reversed, meaning the number of urbanites may far exceed the number of their rustic counterparts. When that becomes a reality, it beats one's imagination on from where the urban residents can expect their food needs to be met? Action to prevent this eventuality is nowhere evident.

Inputs into projects of maintaining civil facilities as well as adding to the existing infrastructure in cities across the country in monetary and physical terms amount to several hundred times the inputs into projects of welfare of the rustics, a feature being bandied about by all and sundry public speakers with no sign of stopping the measures to pamper urban residents. The currently going on dilly-dallying by the government to waive the loans taken by farmers, for good or bad reasons, has only angered the farming fraternity, even the urbanites are mute spectators to the stalemate.

The land's leading lights advising the administration are preoccupied with scholarly and academic debates on macro-economic matters such as gross domestic product, current account shortfall, fiscal deficit, rising unemployment rate, budgetary allocations to different sectors of the economy and so on without hitting the bull's eye of practical and plausible measures to resolve the well-marked problems bugging the populace of the country's cities and villages in diverse ways. Two of the problems that don't permit any delay in resolving are (a) Containing the rise in the number of cities as well as their headcount and (b) Raising the family income of the rustics to levels that dissuade them from abandoning agriculture.

If smart cities are created by spending humongous amounts of public funds, not bestowing any attention to create smart villages is incongruous, to say the least. Smart cities are bound to raise their population density and the dependence on the produce from villages. Now, depleting the land of its villages and not preventing the increase in the number of its cities as well as their headcount amount to a double whammy for the nation in days ahead.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

Monarchy walked into a bar and joined Democracy and Dictatorship already seated by the window. "How's it going?" Monarchy asked cheerily, adjusting his crown and ordering a Diamond Martini, after duly noting Dictatorship was drinking 64-year Macallan. Democracy was nursing a beer and looking gloomy. "All good!" chortled Dictatorship. "I just put 4,000 protestors in jail and executed six by firing squad." Not to be outdone, Monarchy threw back his robe and boasted, "I had eight people beheaded and a gay couple stoned to death." "And how about you?" they asked Democracy. "Don't ask," he moaned. "Last week, there were riots all over my country. People are angry over rising oil prices, falling employment, failing rains, power outages, pollution, leaked question papers and traffic. I haven't been able to deliver because people themselves are lazy and disorganised but blame me." Glumly, he added, "I'm sure I'm going to lose the next elections." "Hello, hello! I have been telling him to ditch elections and let chaos unfold," said Anarchy, a tattooed wastrel who had lurched in smelling of cheap country liquor. "Yeah, you should blame multinationals!" said Banana Republic, who had slipped in with Anarchy. — Chidanand Rajghatta in The Times of India.

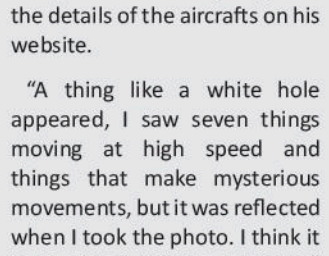
Japanese boy allegedly contacts UFOs telepathically



Tokyo: Japanese social media was abuzz with news of a 13-year-old boy who can reportedly contact UFOs telepathically.

13-year-old Haruya Ido is being referred to as "UFO BOy" by the Japanese media, for his alleged ability to attract Unidentified Flying Objects. Toshitaro Yamaguchi, a known paranormal researcher and the man who first shared Haruya's photos with the world, has described the boy as a classic UFO contactee with the ability to contact UFOs via telepathy.

Haruya Ido has apparently managed to photograph UFOs in different places around Japan on four different occasions just last year. He documented both the place of the sighting and the details of the aircrafts on his website.

"A thing like a white hole appeared, I saw seven things moving at high speed and things that make mysterious movements, but it was reflected when I took the photo. I think it is an object but I'm not sure," the UFO boy wrote.

Vampire hunters kill people following rumours

Malawi: At least 9 suspected vampires have been brutally murdered in Malawi since mid-September, including two men in the country's second-largest city, Blantyre. According to Police, two were stoned and one was set on fire. A vigilante group has been targeting individuals accused of being vampires and sucking the blood of the innocents.

Malawi is one of the poorest nations in the world, with low educational standards and access. Belief in witchcraft is widespread, and difficulties are often attributed to magical or superstitious explanations.

Bus shelter continues to be topless

Sir,

The bus shelter provided near KEB stop in Kuvempunagar, which is said to have been sponsored by the Karnataka Bank, continues to remain topless despite the omission was reported earlier in November 2017 in these columns.

The MCC, which provides the bus shelters in city, has not taken the matter seriously. Summer is over and the rainy season has already started but no remedial measures have been taken despite the matter being brought to their notice. The poor passengers who want to take shelter continue to suffer. Will the MCC wake up from its slumber?

Teachers must act as social engineers

Mysuru, June 6- The contemporary teachers are expected to act as social engineers to build the students' abilities and attitudes to make them responsible citizens, said Dr. N. N. Prahallada, former faculty of RIE NCERT Mysuru while addressing the teachers of DAV Public School, Visweshwaranagar, as part of their enrichment programme at the school premises recently.

He said teaching is a social act but learning is an individual act. Teaching means communication. Teachers will have to plan their lesson in such a way that while delivering the same it becomes systematic and meaningful for the students.

How best a teacher teaches is not that important, rather how much students understand and learn is much more important, he added.

According to National Curriculum Framework (NCF)-2005, no teacher should label any student as dull, intelligent, useless etc. because each student has his or her own pace of learning, he said adding treat each student as a jewel and assist them to perform better.

Dissolve Assembly and face fresh polls, BSY dares HDK

BJP State President B.S. Yeddyurappa, along with MLA S.A. Ramdas, is seen watering a sapling to inaugurate the thanks-giving meeting of BJP (Krishnaraja Assembly Constituency) held at Rajendra Kalamandira on Ramanuja Road in city yesterday as others look on.

Mysuru, June 6 (MTY&BCT)- BJP State President and the Leader of Opposition in the Legislative Assembly B.S. Yeddyurappa has dared Chief Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy to dissolve the Assembly and face fresh polls. "If you have the guts, dissolve the Assembly and come for election," Yeddyurappa thundered.

He was speaking during the thanks-giving meeting of BJP under Krishnaraja Assembly Constituency yesterday at Rajendra Kalamandira on Ramanuja Road where he thanked the voters for choosing the BJP and party workers for ensuring the victory of MLA S.A. Ramdas.

"Kumaraswamy, who is under the mercy of the Congress for making him the CM, should come out of the coalition and seek people's mandate once again, if he has self-respect," he said.

"People are already fed up of the government and they have seen the drama enacted by 'father and sons' party JD(S) which is supported by Congress. Shamelessly they have come together and have gone against the people's mandate," the former CM lashed out.

The Government has a short life and Congress will not allow Kumaraswamy to govern. "Already Congress leaders have openly stated that if they support JD(S) for five years, Congress will lose relevance in Karnataka. We are witnessing tussle for power almost every day. Even Kumaraswamy is not sure of running the Government for a full term," Yeddyurappa said.

"If the elections are held at this moment, the BJP will surely win 150 seats as in many constituencies, we have lost by narrow margins," he said.

Yeddyurappa said that there was too much confusion prevailing between leaders of JD(S) and Congress and the coalition Government will not last long. He said people would not accept opportunistic politics practiced by Congress and JD(S).

Loan waiver

Yeddyurappa said that CM Kumaraswamy was creating confusion over farmers' loan waiver issue by indicating that it would be done in phases. "I know the 'father and sons better than the people of the State. This coalition Government is full of confusion. Dissent has exploded in the coalition. This would reach its peak after the formation of the Cabinet. We are observing everything. The behaviour of the two parties will affect the development of the State for sure."

"The CM is thinking that he can buy more time on loan waiver so that he can later hoodwink the people of Karnataka by washing his hands off the loan waiver promise. We will not allow this to happen. If he did not have the capacity, Kumaraswamy should not have announced the loan waiver in his manifesto. We will compel him to fulfil the promise to farmers," Yeddyurappa said.

Analysing the party's failure to reach the magic number 111 in the Assembly election, Yeddyurappa said, "I had prepared for the election with State tours. We expected to win about 135 seats. But, in 24 constituencies, the BJP candidates lost with a small margin of 500 to 2,000 votes.

Referring to Kumaraswamy's statement that he has became the CM on the courtesy of the Congress party, Yeddyurappa demanded him to apologies to the six crore people of the State.

Reacting to the allegation of Kumaraswamy that he misused the Government funds/ facilities by taking a helicopter to participate in the funeral of Ilkal seer, he said that the Government itself provided him with the facility when he was officiating as CM. "He should enquire about this with the Chief Secretary. I am ready to bear the expenses, if the Govt. deems so," he said.

Education sector

Claiming that the BJP had done more for the education sector when it was in power, Yeddyurappa appealed to the voters to choose BJP candidates for the Graduates and Teachers Constituencies (Legislative Council) elections to be held on June 8.

Alleging that the Congress government had accorded least priority for education in the last five years, the former CM, while interacting with teachers at Rajendra Kalamandira last evening, said that the Department has grown to be the most corrupt one in the last five years. He appealed to the teachers to cast votes in favour of B. Niranjan Murthy from the Teachers Constituency.

June electricity bills based on new tariff

Arrears of May to be indicated as dues

Mysuru, June 6 (US)- As per the order of Karnataka Electricity Regulatory Commission (KERC), Chamundeshawari Electricity Supply Corporation (CESC) has revised the power tariff from May 14 with the new rate applicable right from April 1.

However, owing to some technical problems the software of the computers could not be tuned to reckon the revised tariff and hence the power bill for customers issued in May was based on the old tariff.

With the software now tuned appropriately, the power bill to be issued in June will incorporate the new tariff and the difference amount payable in May will be indicated as dues in the June bill, according to a press release from CESC.

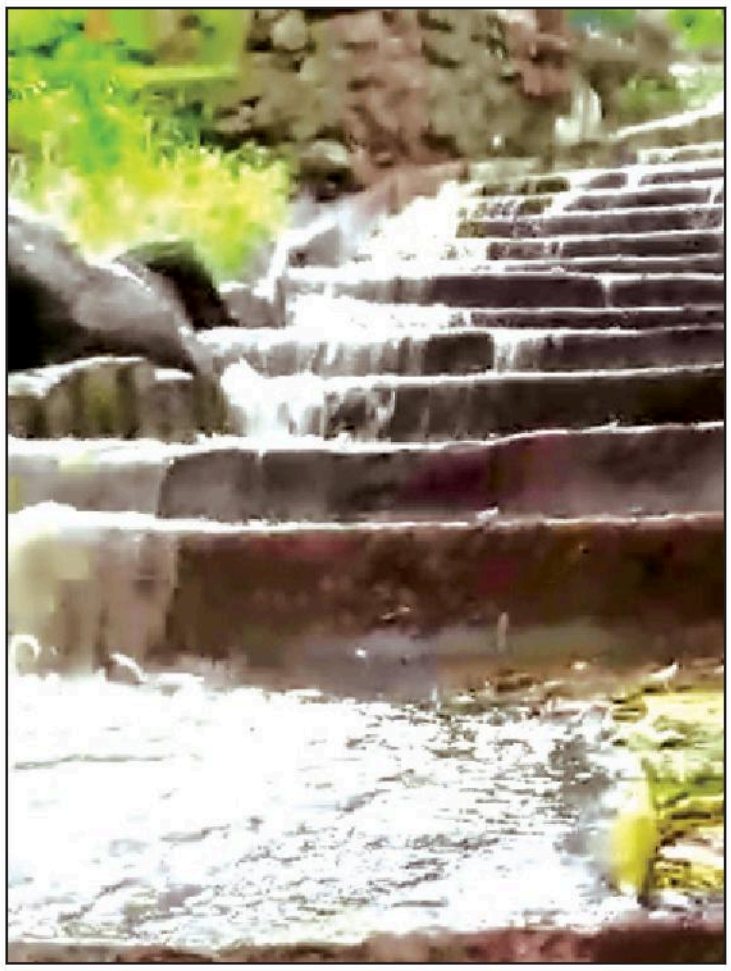
Chamundi Hill steps turns into waterfall



Mysuru, June 6 (SBD&NNN)- It was one of the most pleasing and visually delightful sight for the nature-lovers, that too on the World Environment Day yesterday at the Chamundi Hill steps.

The cascading sound of the water flowing down the one thousand steps that lead to the temple atop Chamundi Hill was music to the ears of the devotees and tourists. The heavy rains yesterday turned the steps into a waterfall as it flowed freely right from the top to the foot of the hill.

As the area has turned green with greenery all around, it looked like a mini forest. Even though it stopped raining, the water continued to cascade and the joy of the hill climbers knew no bounds.

The mobile cameras were out and videos started doing the social media like WhatsApp and Facebook rounds with each message trying to better the other reading 'Chamundi Jalapatha' (Chamundi waterfall), 'Chamundi bettadalli Gangeya narthana' (Ganga's dance at Chamundi Hill).

It may be recalled that a few months ago, the same scene had unfolded on the steps of Chamundi Hill.

Laksha Vruksha project: MCC to plant 1.54 lakh saplings in 65 Wards

Mysuru, June 6 (SPN&NNN)- The Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) in association with the Horticulture Department will plant 1.54 lakh saplings in its 65 Wards as part of World Environment Day celebrations, said Mayor B. Bhagyavathi.

Addressing a press conference at the MCC Office here yesterday, she said that this is as part of the 'Laksha Vruksha' (one lakh tree) project launched at a cost of Rs.5 crore and it is likely to be completed in three months duration.

In every Ward different species of 1,250 plants including 750 ornamental ones will be planted. The saplings will be bought from the Horticulture Department wing's Nursery Co-operative Society, Bengaluru at Standard Rates (SR), she said.

After the saplings are planted it will be nurtured and protected. Plants will be watered and tree guards fixed. The MCC will take the responsibility of nurturing 10,000 plants. The private and voluntary organisations will be entrusted with the responsibility of protecting and nurturing the remaining plants, said Bhagyavathi.

She said that saplings have been planted by Deputy Mayor Indira Mahesh and herself in the MCC premises, thus launching the greening movement.

Former Deputy Mayor Mahadevamma, Corporator S. Balu and Horticulture Department Assistant Director E. Muralidhar were present on the occasion.

'MYSORE MEMORIES'

Endearing Pets

By Girija Madhavan

Star of Mysore recently carried two touching stories about pets. I recall an unusual one from my childhood. In the early 1940s, after an illness, I was kept at home. Our Railway bungalow had a large garden. A lonely child, I wanted a pet for company. Dogs were vetoed because the family dog, Veera, had menaced visitors and tradesmen but ingratiated himself with dubious strangers. In my English book, I saw a picture of a golden-haired girl with a fleecy white lamb, in a garden of hollyhocks and bluebells. I wistfully told my mother that I too would like such a pet.

To my surprise, she agreed and asked Thimmanna, the gardener, who had village contacts, to get one for me. When the "lamb" arrived, it was a fully grown animal with brown, shaggy wool. To my mother this was the ideal pet; it did not enter the house, carried no infectious diseases and needed no inoculations. Named Kuri [sheep in Kannada], he could not gambol like the lamb in my picture book. He had a passion for bread, all but knocking me over in eagerness for the treat, when I called out "Kuri, Bread!" His absence was noticed only when there was no response to repeated offers of bread. Alarmed searches began; but to no avail. Everyone guessed his fate but I was told that Kuri was homesick and had gone back to the village.

In later years my husband, an Indian diplomat, and I were posted abroad to places with strict quarantine regulations. We were sent to London in 1970. The High Commissioner and Deputy High Commissioner had their official Residences. Other officials found their own accommodation.

We started house-hunting. I was charmed by a cottage owned by two old ladies. A pear tree bloomed in the garden. However, the address "No 23, Dog's Lane, Neasden, London," was thought unsuitable for diplomats. We found instead a place in West Dulwich, an enclave called Pymers Mead. Finally, it was due to quarantine rules that we got the lease. The owner, a British diplomat, was going to Laos. The family cat would be quarantined upon return. It was part of the rental deal that the cat should stay on with us. "Pussy cat Wilbur" was a long haired tomcat with a white bib and paws. Independent spirited, he had a temper, clawing and hissing when groomed. He would wait by the front door at night to be let out, returning the next morning, battle scarred, with bleeding ears or torn fur, to sleep all day in the corner of a bay window, a paw over his eyes. He loved to disrupt games like chess, monopoly or scrabble, by sitting on the board while the game was in progress. He was restored to his owners when we left London in 1974. I have never forgotten him.

Yadavagiri in Mysuru is home to exotic pets, apart from stray dogs: an African Grey parrot, a Great Dane, a St. Bernard, Dalmatians and Labradors. Now-a-days animals do not figure in our daily lives. It was not so in old Mysore. Cows were brought to the house along with their calves, to be milked in front of the household. Some families owned small covered carts drawn by a single bullock. A jet black cow was brought to some houses to be fed jaggery and sesame on occasion. "Dasaiah" priests brought along decorated bulls, striking a brass gong or blowing a conch to announce themselves. Drums and pipes [volaga] accompanied them sometimes.

Jutkas were not as common as Tongas drawn by ponies. City buses and a few yellow-black taxis were the main means of public transport until the first autorickshaw, belonging to a young man called "Pyare Jan," appeared in Mysore in the early 1960s. It was then a novelty, so popular that we had to book ahead of time to be sure of a ride. Thankfully, bullock carts hauling loads of bricks or stone, the animals cruelly beaten, are now rare, as are the soothsayers with their caged parrots.

Donkeys and their charming little foals have appeared in Yadavagiri from the Dhobi Ghat downhill. Donkey's milk is believed to be healthful for infants. So these animals are well-fed and prized now. I recall family laundry lists being recorded in the "Dhobi Book"; the washing was then loaded in panniers on to a waiting donkey. My father, M. Venkatesh, photographed the dhobi and donkey against the backdrop of his car of the 1930s. He also took a picture of a liveried driver in a cart which was pulled by bullocks with large curving horns which he identified as a breed called "Amrit Mahal."

Animals and birds have symbolic significance in common superstitions. Respectfully touching a cow or bull is lucky. Owls are considered bad omens. Cats crossing one's path augur bad luck. Elders murmured "Krishna, Krishna!" when a Garuda eagle [the vahana of Krishna] soared in the sky, white breast in sharp contrast to the russet plumage. Some news reports suggested that an eagle alighting on a tree was a sign awaited by the killers of Indira Gandhi to carry out her assassination.

"Seeing-eye dogs" and "Therapy dogs," animal companionship for children and the elderly, are being recognised as blessings. Let us treasure the unconditional love animals give us and reciprocate it. Rudyard Kipling, in his story "The Miracle of Puran Bhagat" [1895], starts the tale with the Dirge of the Langurs who "loved him with the love that knows but cannot understand."

Mysore Varsity to implement

Choice Based Credit System for students

Lecturers, Principals feel unprepared to implement new assessment system

Mysuru, June 6 (BCT)- With the admission process of students to undergraduate colleges coming to a close and the classes set to begin from June 18, the University of Mysore has just given the green signal for implementation of the Choice Based Credit System (CBCS) and Continuous Assessment of Grading Pattern (CAGP) for undergraduate programmes from the academic year 2018-19.

However, the CBCS-CAGP system has created a lot of confusion among the colleges as the concerned college authorities are not prepared for the implementation.

Speaking to Star of Mysore, a few College Principals said that they had no clue how to prepare for the new system.

They argue that time is too short to implement the new system. "90 percent of the principals or the faculties are not even aware of CBCS-CAGP system and the undergraduate classes are beginning on June 18. How can the University expect us to implement it in a hurry," questioned a principal on condition of anonymity.

Another Principal asked, "while as per the new system, the student assessment is based on internals, tutorial, lecture and will be 'practical-oriented' nobody knows the definition of tutorial, lecture and practical. If field work is prescribed for practical assessment, on what basis should the field work be assigned? If there are four core subjects, there will be internal assessment for all the four subjects. Will a lecturer give field work for all the four subjects? In that case, when will a student sit in a classroom."

Another Lecturer noted that though the new CBCS-CAGP system is good and gives a lot of scope for intelligence and capacity, the colleges must be prepared to drive the same which might be difficult considering the shortage of lecturers and infrastructure."

University clarifies

However, the University authorities said that the faculty will be adequately trained for the new system and a workshop (with separate sessions) has been organised today and tomorrow for faculties and heads of departments where all doubts will be clarified.

When questioned if training in such short notice was effective, the University authority informed that they were prepared months ago but could not conduct the training earlier because of Election Model Code of Conduct.

UGC directive

The University has implemented the new system based on the decisions taken by Academic Council meetings held last year and this year.

The University Grants Commission has come up with CBCS-CAGP programme wherein students have a choice to choose from the prescribed courses and they can learn at their own pace and the entire assessment is graded based on a credit system.

In the University of Mysore, the CBCS-CAGP system will apply to all the undergraduate programmes under Arts, Science and Commerce – BA, B.Sc., B.Com., BBA and BSW.

Now PUC not a must

AGM of Kodava Federation held

Kodava Apex body to take up issues with Kodagu DC

Kallichanda Vishnu Kariappa President, Federation of Kodava Samajas, Kodagu

Madikeri, June 6- The Federation of Kodava Samajas, Balagodu, Virajpet taluk, held its Annual General Body Meeting for the year 2017-18 on June 5, 2018 at its head office in Balagodu.

The meeting was attended by about 140 members. Federation President Kallichanda Vishnu Kariappa presided.

The President said that the membership drive in three categories namely, Kodava Samaja membership, Donor Membership and Kodava Okka (Family) Membership drive is pursued vigorously in order to strengthen the Federation.

The President said the Federation had received a letter dated 25.5.2018 from some members jointly requesting the Federation in its General Body of 2017-18 to discuss the issues mentioned in the letter and take appropriate decisions or pass resolutions. Among the issues mentioned in this letter were as follows:

1. To set up a Secretariat with an able Administrator to receive complaints and petitions from the members for solution with the guidance and help from the Federation. The Secretariat will interact with various Government Departments, if necessary, and report to the General Council or the President or the Secretary. 2. Federation to take up the cause of getting the Linguistic Minority status. 3. Make efforts to get Scheduled Tribe status for Kodavas. 4. Federation to ensure that no new places of worship are constructed near important temples of Kodavas like Sri Padi Igguthappa Temple at Kakkabe, Bhagandeshwara Temple at Bhagamandala, Mruthyunjaya Temple at Badaga etc. in order to protect the sanctity of these ancient temples.

5. Federation to take up the issue of Caste Certificate to be issued to Kodavas. At present, the Tahsildar is issuing the certificate saying 'Kodagaru' instead of 'Kodava.' This is causing problems wherever Caste Certificate is required to get benefits under Government schemes. 6. Federation to discuss with the concerned Government Department to complete the remaining 600 mts. road work from Pukola, Birunani, to Virajpet via Kotiyala, which will reduce the distance to Virajpet taluk headquarters by about 28 kms for the villagers. 7. Federation to discuss with the Government to withdraw cases filed against those who participated in the agitation against the high tension power lines going across South Kodagu to Kerala.

The President told the General Body that the Governing Council had discussed these issues at a special meeting inviting the representatives of all Kodava Samajas and would soon be meeting the Deputy Commissioner to discuss the matter and find solutions.

Raising the issue of the proposed Railway line criss-crossing Kodagu district, a senior member of the Federation expressed surprise that the massive protest march which was launched under the initiative of Mysuru Kodava Samaja, in association with some of the Kodava Samajas in Kodagu, should have been first discussed by the Federation which is the apex body of all Kodavas and led by the Federation. However, the President said that since it was done in a hurried manner the Federation could not take the leadership.

The Annual General Body Meeting concluded with a vote of thanks followed by a lunch.

'Remind women they can dream'

Pramoda Devi Wadiyar at CII's Conference on Women Empowerment

Mysuru, June 6 (NNN)- "Women need to be reminded often that they also have a right to dream and go after realising their dreams and given a fair chance, women can be strong and determined enough to achieve the set goals," said Pramoda Devi Wadiyar.

She was speaking at a Conference on "Empowering the Indian Woman: A Vision to Fly Higher" organised by the Confederation of Indian Industry (CII), Mysuru Chapter, at Hotel Grand Mercure here this morning and said, "Women empowerment means freedom from social, economical, political, caste and gender-based discrimination. One should be encouraged to develop self-confidence to articulate and communicate one's thoughts and be given freedom to make choices."

Recalling the contributions of Nalwadi Krishnaraja Wadiyar to women's empowerment, she said that right to hold properties by women was advocated by him at a time when there was so much gender discrimination and she was proud of the fact that she belonged to such a family.

On education, she said that it is the most important and indispensable tool for women empowerment. "However, it has been a challenge to change the attitude of disregard towards women which is so deep-rooted in society. But we have come a long way and today women are represented in all fields," she said.

MYRA School of Business Founder-Chairperson Dr. Shalini Urs, speaking on the topic "Womenomics: It is not only empathy and equity but about economics" calling for the Mysuru model of Womenomics, said that women empowerment is not just a feminist aspect but about how far the envelope can be pushed.

"Womenomics is a word coined by Claire Shipman and Katty Kay in the book by the same name. Gender is no longer just gender issue but a business issue as women are impacting at every level of business," she said.

She pointed out that even though women outshine men in many respects it is sad as the IMF (International Monetary Fund) Chief Christine Lagarde revealed that if India's GDP of 27 percent has to grow then more women have to participate and currently it is not happening.

When it comes to education in India, girls' enrolment in primary, secondary and tertiary education has gone up as they outnumber boys. However, when compared to Pakistan where 70% of the girls are educated, Bangladesh 60% and the global average is 60%, in India it is 51% girls and 49% boys who are educated, she said.

"Sadly when it comes to economic participation we fail miserably. This is happening in spite of the huge talent pool of women as they are not being gainfully employed," she said. On the business front, Dr. Shalini said that women leaders contribute a lot more to profits of the industry than men as the data shows and rarely a woman heading an organisation has gone bankrupt.

CII Immediate Past Chairman, Karnataka and Volvo India, Managing Director Kamal Bali and Industrialist B.R. Pai also spoke.

Former Indian Athlete Reeth Abraham shared why she decided to give up a team sport like basketball and concentrate on individual sport like long-jump and running and how she got back to track and field training after her pregnancy.

CII Mysuru Vice-Chairman Bhaskar Kalale welcomed.

Two-day workshop on student assessment system begins

University of Mysore defends Choice Based Credit System; allays fears of colleges and faculties

Prof. J.A.K. Tareen (extreme right), former Vice-Chancellor of Kashmir and Pondicherry Universities, lighting the lamp to inaugurate the workshop at Vijnana Bhavana in Manasagangothri this morning as In-charge VC of Mysore University Prof. T.K. Umesh, Finance Officer Prof. Mahadevappa, Registrar D. Bharathi, Registrar (Evaluation) Prof. J. Somashekar and Director of College Development Council Dr. S. Srikantaswamy look on.

Mysuru, June 6 (MTYBCT)- A two-day training-cum-workshop on Choice Based Credit System (CBCS) and Continuous Assessment of Grading Pattern (CAGP) for undergraduate programmes began at Vijnana Bhavana in Manasagangothri this morning. The University of Mysore (UoM) has decided to implement CBCS-CAGP system from the academic year 2018-19.

Over 300 delegates including Principals of Colleges coming under the University, academic Heads, Heads of Departments of Commerce and Science streams and CBCS Nodal Officers are attending the first day of the workshop. Tomorrow, the workshop will be held for Arts stream.

The workshop was inaugurated by Prof. J.A.K. Tareen, former Vice-Chancellor, Kashmir and Pondicherry Universities. Prof. Yashwanth Dongre, Director, PMEB and Dr. S. Srikantaswamy, Director of College Development Council (CDC), who is also the convener of the CBCS-CAGP system, were present.

Addressing the gathering, Prof. Tareen said that the University has to implement new concepts to bring out the best among students. "Unfortunately the students of Mysore University have not excelled either in studies or in research when compared to other Universities in India and abroad. There is lack of performance among students and the University too is not ready to accept new challenges," he regretted.

Speaking to Star of Mysore ahead of the workshop, Dr. S. Srikantaswamy said that the workshop aims to allay all fears of colleges and faculties regarding the CBCS-CAGP system.

"The University Grants Commission (UGC) has made it mandatory for all Universities in the country to implement the system and in Karnataka, the UoM is the first University to implement the system in the degree level. Till now, we were following conventional education system and a set pattern. At present there is confusion among colleges and faculties regarding the new system. This is the precise reason why we are organising the workshop to sensitise the Principals and faculties," he said.

On why the University was implementing the CBCS-CAGP system in a tearing hurry, Dr. Srikantaswamy said that the University could not do it before due to the enforcement of Model Code of Conduct for the recently held Assembly elections.

"We had kept the regulation and modalities of implementation ready in March this year itself but we could not conduct the Academic Council and Syndicate meetings due to the poll conduct. Now again, the Graduates and Teachers Council polls will be held on June 8. The Syndicate and Academic Council will now meet on June 18 and 20 and the CBCS-CAGP system will be approved at the meetings and this will be the official nod to implement the new system," he said.

Earlier too, the University had conducted workshops for Principals on CBCS-CAGP system in January and they are aware of it. "We have now invited Principals, faculty and the Nodal Officers for the workshop so that the system can percolate and come into force. I assure the colleges that confusions, doubts and apprehension will be cleared at the workshops," he said.

JSS College on Ooty Road, an autonomous institution, has already successfully implemented the CBCS-CAGP system as per global standards, Dr. Srikantaswamy added.

In this week's Pet Talk, Maneka speaks about keeping birds as pet and about horse diet.

Pet Talk

Maneka Gandhi

My pet bird laid an egg; What to know and do?

Unless the bird has been exposed to a male bird before the egg, or eggs, were laid, the egg will not be fertile — in this case, most bird owners remove the egg from the cage and throw it away, and most of the time the birds go back to their normal routines.

If there is a chance that the egg, your pet bird has laid, is fertile and you want to raise the baby bird, you should candle the egg to see if it was indeed fertilised. Candling is a process where a bright light is held behind an egg to illuminate its contents without cracking it open. A bird breeder can determine whether or not the egg is fertilised based on the colour, shape, and opacity of the contents. If you find the egg in your pet's cage was fertilised, you will need to give it back to the mother for incubation and make a nesting place for her where the egg is kept warm.

How to treat and prevent cat dandruff?

The key to getting rid of dandruff in cats is to soothe and moisturise the skin to prevent further flaking. Medicated shampoos containing soothing ingredients like aloe-vera and natural oils can also help to get rid of dandruff. Cats are very clean animals by nature and they spend a great deal of time grooming themselves. This being the case, it should not be necessary to bathe your cat. If you bathe your cat too often, it could dry out your cat's skin, causing irritation and flaking. If you do decide to bathe your cat, be sure to use a gentle, cat-friendly shampoo to prevent irritation. Another easy way to prevent dandruff is to feed your cat a diet rich in omega-3 fatty acids. Give your cat a small amount of wet food every day to keep its coat glossy and his skin moisturised.

What are the causes of regurgitation in pet birds?

Regurgitation is not vomiting. It is a behavioural display and not a medical symptom. The substance that is produced during regurgitation is expelled from the bird's crop, and not the stomach. The first thing to understand about regurgitation is that your bird would not be doing it if he or she didn't feel extremely comfortable and bonded to you.

Regurgitation, as seen in wild birds, demonstrates a high level of affection for a flock-mate. If your bird regurgitates for you, he or she is attempting to let you know that you are loved and respected, as strange as it may seem. Secondly, regurgitation can be triggered by certain actions on your behalf. Pay attention to your bird and you will begin to recognise things that seem to trigger regurgitation in your pet. It could be a certain word or phrase you say to your bird, a certain toy that the two of you play with, or a game that you enjoy, or even something as simple as a scratch on the back of the head.

For example, some birds regurgitate almost without fail every time their owner pets and rubs them underneath their wings. Different birds will have different things that trigger regurgitation, so owners must gauge their interactions with their pets in order to determine what types of stimulation compels their own pet birds to regurgitate. Once you begin to recognise the things that stimulate your bird to regurgitate, you can do your best to avoid regurgitation, if you so wish, by attempting to eliminate the triggers.

How much hay should my horse be eating?

Just how much hay your horse will need depends on its weight. A full-grown horse should eat about 7 to 8 Kilograms of hay a day. That is 1.5 to 3% of its body weight if it weighs about 450 kilograms. This is a very rough average and horses will require more or less depending on their metabolism, workload, time of year, and what else they may be eating. Having small amounts of hay available frequently mimics the natural grazing instincts and is healthiest for your horse's mind and body. So try not to feed your horse a full day's worth in one meal. For the healthiest digestive system, it is best to have hay available all the times. Most horses are self-regulating. There are some that will need their hay diet restricted to prevent obesity.

How to give first aid for horse eye injuries and infections?

If your horse has an eye injury or infection: You should have salt or saline solution in your horse's first aid kit. Clean up the area very gently with a saline solution. If you don't have one on hand (like the saline solution for contact lens wearers) you can make some yourself. The ratio is about 1/4 tsp of table salt to a cup of boiled and cooled to lukewarm water. It should taste like tears. Put a fly mask on the horse to keep flies off of the eye area. If possible keep your horse in subdued light, such as his stall, until the veterinarian arrives. When working with a horse with an eye problem, be aware that he may have obscured vision. Talk gently so you don't surprise him if you walk up on a 'blind side.'

What are the risk that my pet bird can contract avian flu?

There are two factors which could cause the risk of infection to come into play: Make sure that you always wash your hands before and after handling your bird, to protect the health of both you and your pet. If you fall ill, ask a friend or family member to come and tend to your bird until you get better. With proper hygiene and common sense, you should be able to prevent many major illnesses from popping up around your household — including avian flu. Maintaining high standards of health awareness will help you and your bird.

What is your opinion of people who keep pet birds?

I have a very low opinion of people who want to imprison a living being just because it makes them look good. A bird is not a companion, and to take wild birds out of their homes and put them for years in unnatural surroundings is mean and selfish.

Why don't you just let the bird fly away. It seems so appalling, insensitive and tasteless to keep birds in a human home for no reason. Ecologically, it is extremely destructive. Many of these species are endangered because of the pet trade, and the plants and insects that depend on them are also out of balance.

The only reason why I answer questions on how to keep birds is because so many people keep them without any knowledge at all.

What is feline asthma?

Much like human asthma, feline asthma is an allergen-caused upper respiratory condition that causes distressed breathing.

It is also called bronchitis or feline bronchial disease. Bronchial spasms cause the individual bronchi to constrict or tighten, and the resultant swelling of surrounding tissues puts the cat into a full-blown asthma attack. Again, these are many of the same allergens responsible for human asthma attacks:

• Smoke • Mildew or Mould • Household Chemicals • Dust • Pollens • Cat Litter • Cold, Moist Air.

Early symptoms may be difficult to detect. You may hear a faint wheezing, which is more audible after vigorous exercise. Your cat may seem to tire easily. Laboured breathing may proceed a serious attack. This can be life-threatening, and a cat, in a full-blown attack, should be taken to a veterinarian immediately. Even a cat showing one or two of the early symptoms should be examined.

Snail's pace!

As monsoon sets in, most of the works outdoor come to a halt or say, goes on 'AT A SNAIL'S PACE.' This idiom finds mention mostly to express how slow the works, especially that of the PWD, go on in and around the city due to incessant rains. But on the contrary, the actual SNAIL is more active and prefers to be out after rainstorms. REASON: While moving, snails leave behind a trail of slime, a lubricant they produce to allow them to go on any terrain without injuring its body. Hence, the more moist their environment, the less slime they have to secrete. This series of pictures of a snail coming out of its shell was captured by SOM Photographer M.N. Lakshminarayana Yadav.

Asian Games: Leander Paes returns, Yuki Bhambri gets exemption

New Delhi, June 6- The iconic Leander Paes on June 4 made a comeback to the Asian Games-bound Indian squad while Yuki Bhambri was "exempted" as AITA threw its weight behind country's top singles player in his quest for Grand Slam glory.

Paes, who has won eight medals at the previous editions of Asian Games, has not competed in the prestigious quadrennial event since winning the Men's Doubles gold with Mahesh Bhupathi and Mixed Doubles gold with Sania Mirza at the 2006 Doha Games.

The AITA backed Yuki in skipping the Games in Indonesia, where tennis events will begin on August 19, saying there are not many Indians competing in the Singles at Grand Slams, thus, "the boy must be supported."

Yuki, ranked 94, is expected to make the cut for the US Open and since the tennis events in Indonesia will conclude only two days before the New York Grand Slam begins on August 27, he could not have possibly recovered for the marquee event.

The selection committee chose to pick three singles specialists — Ramkumar Ramanathan, Prajnesh Gunneswaran and Sumit Nagal — and three doubles specialists — Paes, Rohan Bopanna and Divij Sharan — in the men's squad. The women's squad will be led by leading singles player Ankita Raina.

Karman Kaur Thandi, Rutuja Bhosale, Pranjala Yadlapalli, Riya Bhatia and Prarthana Thombare are the other players. All of them were chosen based on their rankings. India's Davis Cup captain Mahesh Bhupathi had requested to be excused from the job and the AITA obliged.

Zeeshan Ali was named the coach-cum-captain of the men's squad while the women's team will be guided by Fed Cup captain Ankita Bhambri.

Virat Kohli only Indian among world's highest-paid athletes

New Delhi, June 6- India cricket team captain Virat Kohli is among the world's highest-paid athletes, according to Forbes. Kohli is the only sportsperson from India to be featured in the list. The Indian skipper is ranked 83rd with earnings of USD 24 million, according to the website.

Surprisingly, the 'World's Highest-Paid Athletes 2018' compilation is an all-male affair with no women being featured in the list.

According to Forbes website www.forbes.com: "Athletes from 11 different sports made the cut. NBA stars lead the way with 40 basketball players among the top 100. It tops the record from one sport set just last year with 32 hoopsters (only 18 were on the 2016 list). The soaring NBA salaries are a result of an increased salary cap, driven by the league's $24 billion TV deal, which tipped off with the 2016-17 season."

The 'World's Highest-Paid Athletes 2018' list is topped by 41-year-old Mayweather, with USD 285 million earnings.

Forbes said tennis' female sportspersons Li Na, Maria Sharapova and Serena Williams were list regulars but Li retired in 2014 and Sharapova is still dealing with the aftermath of a 15-month suspension for using a banned substance.

Serena was the only woman to feature in the top 100 last year, but her prize money dropped from USD 8 million to USD 62,000 this year after she gave birth to her daughter, Alexis, in September.

Kohli is not just cricket-crazy India's biggest name but is also one of the most popular athletes in the world, "boasting more Twitter followers (25 million-plus) than all but three active sports stars.

This year the Indian national cricket board 'The Board of Control for Cricket in India' named Kohli as one of just five players to receive the newly-created A+ contracts, which guarantee an annual retainer of more than USD 1 million, it said.

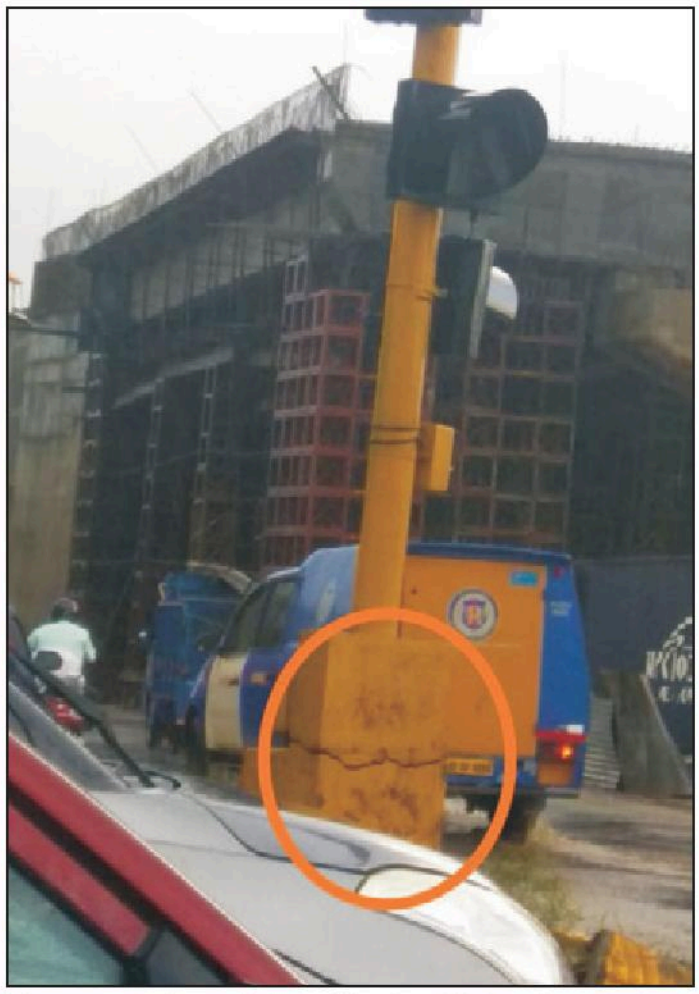
Traffic light pole posing danger on Hunsur Road junction



The concrete base of the traffic signal light pole at the busy Ring Road-Hunsur Road junction is broken and is posing danger to the public. Though most of the time Traffic Police would be conducting checking there, it perhaps has not come to their notice. Authorities concerned are urged to take steps and prevent any untoward incidents that may happen.

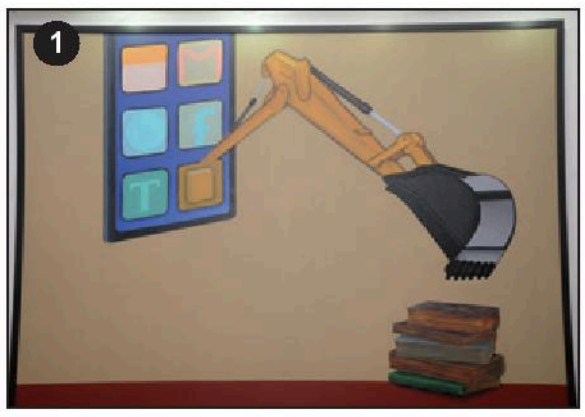
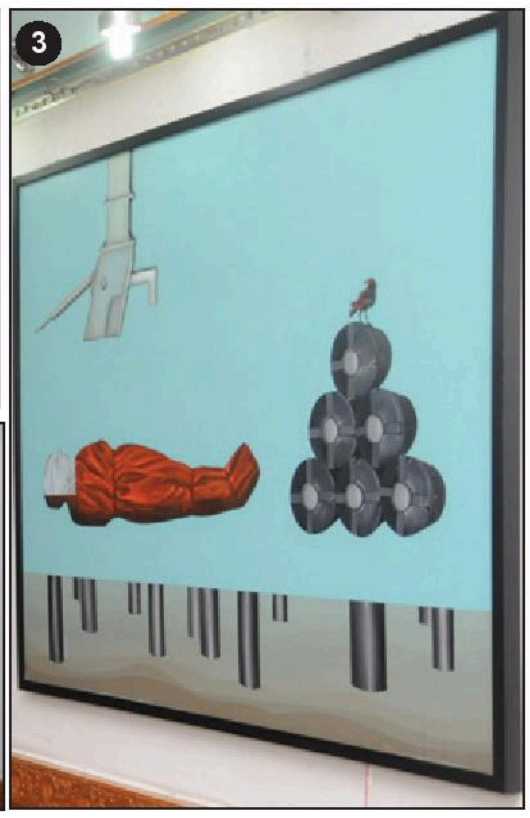
Contemporary Painting Exhibition begins

Artist N. Parameshwara (3rd from right) explaining about one of his paintings on display at the Solo Painting Expo organised by the Department of Kannada & Culture at Kalamandira in city yesterday. Others seen are (from left) Ravivarma Art Institute Principal Shivakumar Kesaramadu, former Rangayana Director H. Janardhan, DCP-2 Mahaninga Nandaganvi, PA to DCP-2 Mahesh Kumar, Jayalakshmipuram Inspector Prakash and DCP (Law and Order) N. Vishnuvardhana. The expo will be open between 10 am and 6 pm today and tomorrow. The above painting is on the concept of food (organic to chemically grown). It depicts how a human turns into an animal when hungry.





ARTIST N. PARAMESHWARA SPEAK: I mainly paint on contemporary concepts. First painting is about mobile app: Today we see how people are more glued to or dependent on their mobile phones. For example, not many people are using library books but instead download an App. Hence, Apps are replacing everything is what I wanted to convey; Second art work is on demonetisation: This idea struck me when Rs.1,000 and Rs.500 notes were demonetised to fight against black money — I chose Zebra to indicate Black money and White money, National Flag colour to symbolise India and used the demonetised currency notes to build a tomb; Third painting is about the need to save water: Nowadays we have water scarcity everywhere. Let alone getting potable water from the wells, even the bore-wells have gone bone-dry. If we don't realise about this burning issue at least now, we may have to find ways to drill bore-wells in the sky!

Anti-Modi government comment: Pejawar Seer does a volte-face

Mysuru, June 6 (YDS&BCT)- Pejawar Seer Sri Vishwesha Theertha Swamiji yesterday clarified that he has not spoken ill about Prime Minister Narendra Modi-led NDA government at the Centre. "I have not spoken anything bad about Modi government. My words have been misconstrued and twisted. I am not disappointed with the government but at the same time, I am not too satisfied with the government's performance," he said.

In a hurriedly convened press conference on the sidelines of the 60th anniversary celebrations of Akhila Bharata Madhwa Maha Mandal at K.R. Vanam Madhwa Students Hostel in city, the Seer said, "My comments were wrongly understood."

The Seer had recently said in Udupi that Modi had not fulfilled some of the promises he had made before assuming office. "There were many other things that needed to be done before building the Ram temple at Ayodhya. The country has to see progress in agriculture and finance, and the Ganga needs to be cleaned. There have been achievements by Modi government, but there are some promises which have not been fulfilled yet. They had promised to bring back black money (hoarded abroad) and to clean the Ganga. But these have not been done. But I agree that the government has succeeded somewhat where the country's economy is concerned," the Seer had stated.

Clarifying on his statements yesterday, the Seer said, "I had just mentioned about the progress not matching expectations with regard to cleaning of Ganga and bringing back black money stashed abroad. It was my disappointment at personal level, but not to berate the Centre."

Pejawar Mutt Seer Sri Vishwesha Theertha Swamiji lighting the lamp to inaugurate the 60th anniversary celebrations of Akhila Bharata Madhwa Maha Mandal at the Madhwa Students Hostel in city yesterday as MLA S.A. Ramdas, Pejawar Mutt Junior Pontiff Sri Vishwaprasanna Theertha Sripadangal and others look on.

He said that due to bad acoustics at the event in Udupi many people could not hear clearly what he said. "My statement had triggered a new debate and hence had to make it clear. However, there was no pressure on me to clarify. The news published and telecast through media would have sent a wrong message to society and I felt it must be clarified," he added.

Steering clear of any controversies, the Seer said that he was not in favour of any party or an individual. "I have a habit of advising governments irrespective of political parties. Similarly, I have advised the Central government. I have told him (Modi) that the progress with regard to two prominent issues (Ganga and black money) is below expectation level. However, Modi is doing well," the Seer said.

On the JD(S)-Congress government in Karnataka, the Pejawar Seer said that he was unhappy with the recent attempts at horse-trading and "resort politics" that followed. "Only when all the three parties (Congress, BJP and JD-S) come together to form a government there would not be any fear of instability. Now, the fear of 'resort politics' still hangs over MLAs," he said.

60 years for Madhwa Maha Mandal in city

Mysuru, June 6 (YDS&BCT)- Pejawar Seer Sri Vishwesha Theertha Swamiji has said that there were many people who sacrificed a lot to build and maintain the Madhwa Students Hostel. He was speaking after inaugurating the 60th anniversary of Akhila Bharata Madhwa Maha Mandal at Madhwa Students Hostel in K.R. Vanam yesterday.

Among the people who have strived for the hostel are H.C. Subbarao, Lakshmanrao who donated the land and Vittal Rao Upadhyaya. "Even I have sat on fasts and visited houses raising funds for the hostel," he said.

Stressing on the importance of spiritual and religious studies along with modern education, the Seer said this was the intention behind establishing Anandathirtha Vidyalaya (by Pejawar Mutt) where the syllabus is a combination of modern teaching and religious value education. He said that there was a suggestion to implement such education system at schools run by the Mutt.

At the event, one Vasanth Kumar appealed to KR MLA S.A. Ramdas to rename Manandawadi Road as Madhwacharya Road. He also donated Rs. 1 lakh to Madhwa Student Hostel and School Managing Committee. Prakhanda Pandit Vidwan Dr. Vyasanakere Prabhanjanacharya donated Rs. 1 lakh to the management. Later, senior leaders of the community were felicitated.

Mandal President Puranik, Vice President K.V. Sridhar, Secretary P.G. Praveen and Treasurer P.V. Nagesh were present.

WORD OF THE DAY

Beaucoup

Pronunciation: BOH-koo.
Meaning: Great in quantity or amount : many, much.
Origin: In French, as you may know, beaucoup is an adverb meaning "a lot" or "much" (as in merci beaucoup, meaning "thanks a lot"). Beaucoup isn't used on its own as an adjective in French; if you want to say "many" in French, you use the phrase beaucoup de. In other words, you would say beaucoup de livres ("a lot of books"), not beaucoup livres. But French grammar was thrown to the wind when English speakers borrowed this word. Beaucoup has been used as a playful slang adjective in English since at least the 19th century.

THE ODD WORD

Chanticleer

A rooster in a fairy tale.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

A fish rots from the head down

Meaning: When an organisation or State fails, it is the leadership that is the root cause.

Origin: This phrase is of ancient origin but precisely which of the ancients coined it is probably beyond our ken at this distant remove. Many countries lay claim to it. There are sources that place it in China, Russia, Poland, England, Greece and so on, but usually with no evidence to substantiate those claims. A correspondent has asserted that it was written in a Greek text by Erasmus, who died in 1546. That may be the case, but no one has been able to substantiate that claim.
All of the early examples of the phrase in print in English prefer the variant 'a fish stinks from the head down' to 'a fish rots from the head down', which is more popular nowadays. Those early examples all ignore the nations mentioned above and credit the term to the Turks. Sir James Porter's Observations on the religion, law, government, and manners of the Turks, 1768, includes this: The Turks have a homely proverb applied on such occasions: they say "the fish stinks first at the head", meaning, that if the servant is disorderly, it is because the master is so.
